

So you want boots for Christmas?

ALLISON CZARNECKI

PETIT ELEFANT

posted: 12/07/2011, 11:16 am

 Recommend

 Tweet 15

 E-mail

in: Products & Prizes

5 comments

In the barren cold tundra that is Utah in the wintertime, I want nothing more than a pair of boots for Christmas. Something I can pull on and trudge into the arctic winter air for carpool pick-up, when it's ten below zero and pitch black at eight in the morning. Maybe something I don't even have to tie because my hands are frozen solid from scraping the windshield.

But wait, I think there's something on the market just like that, something to save me from myself on the bleakest of winter mornings.

Oh my! A pair of boots insulated enough to keep me warm at temperatures of up to -30 below zero, high enough to cover my tender calves, waterproof, and armed with two side handles to pull onto my frozen tootsies?

